1 Basics (continued)

☉ Campus Setting

Beyond geography, where do you want to be? If you can't live without nightlife, think city! If you're into the great outdoors, you might want to go rural. Take your pick.

- Urban (a coffee shop on every corner)
- Suburban (lively, but laid back)
- Small town (quaint, but not remote)
- Rural (away from it all)
- New York
- Doesn't matter

☉ Student Population

Like the vibe of a big crowd? Prefer tight groups you know well? Large schools usually have larger classes and more on-campus resources. Smaller schools are known for a smaller student-teacher ratio. How many people do you want to go to school with?

- The more the better (15,000+)
- Lots, but not a small city (5,000 to 15,000)
- Keep it cozy (2,000 to 5,000)
- Small and intimate (less than 2,000)
- Doesn't matter

☉ Tuition

A school's tuition isn't necessarily what you'll actually pay, because it doesn't reflect financial aid or extra expenses like housing and books. But it's still good to think about. What range are you willing to consider?

- Up to $5000
- Up to $10000
- Up to $15000
- Up to $20000
- Up to $25000
- $25000 or more
- Doesn't matter

For in state tuition cost, in what state do you live?

☉ Types of Colleges

Interested in any of the following types of colleges? Check all that apply.

- Public (larger, less expensive)
- Private (smaller, often pricier)
- 2-year (awards Associates degrees)
- 4-year (awards Bachelors degrees)
- Women's (single sex)
- Men's (single sex)

☉ Religious Affiliation

Is a school's religious affiliation important to you? If so, which faith? Keep in mind that while some schools focus on faith-based learning, others simply have a historical affiliation.
